Meet the keeper of Melbourne's most famous brothel. 'Female pest', entrepreneur and jilted lover, Caroline Hodgson (1851-1908) is Madame Brussels.

LM Robinson charts the story of Melbourne's 'Queen of Harlotry' through the decadent 1880s and the tumultuous 1890s, through courtroom dramas, love affairs and a war between heaven and hell. Meticulously researched and evocatively recounted, Madame Brussels: This Moral Pandemonium dispels the myths and uncovers the true story of the most reviled woman of Marvellous Melbourne.

'... small, beautifully designed, with apt illustrations. In this illuminating biography, Caroline emerges as resourceful, smart and perhaps a hopeless romantic.'

– Lucy Sussex, The Age
